SOSH ARCHITECTS PROMOTES AUSTIN GERBER TO SENIOR ASSOCIATE

(Atlantic City, NJ) – SOSH Architects, an award-winning and nationally recognized architecture, interior design and master planning firm, is pleased to announce the promotion of Austin Gerber, AIA to Senior Associate.

Austin, who joined SOSH in 2003, offers more than 16 years of experience in design, coordination and management to the firm and its clients. His role as both project manager and designer contribute to his effectiveness in all phases of the design process, and his talents and passion for design and efficiency have been leveraged across a range of project types. Austin has served in key architectural and design roles and has led design teams on major projects including Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Atlantic City, 600 NoBe at North Beach, and the Atlantic City Convention Center and Historic Boardwalk Hall renovations. As Senior Associate, Austin's role will expand to include leadership in the firm's IT operations keeping SOSH ahead of the curve with cutting edge design and development solutions. He will also continue to provide high-level project management across a variety of building types.

"It has been a pleasure to watch Austin evolve from an intern architect into a dynamic and talented architect and leader in our firm over the last 16 years," said SOSH Principal Bill Salerno. "Austin's contributions are not only recognized within our firm, but within the design industry and community as a whole. Along with my partners, I congratulate Austin on his success and look forward to his future accomplishments as a Senior Associate at SOSH."

Austin is a registered architect in the State of New Jersey, and received a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the School of Architecture at Syracuse University. He currently resides in Northfield, NJ with his wife, Regina and two children, Charlotte and Ethan.
